After more than a year of attempts, health care reform bill was finally passed on March 21, 2010. “This legislation will not fix everything that ails our health care system, but it moves us decisively in the right direction--Obama”. However, what does this historical bill mean for you and me exactly? How will this bill influence health care insurance and health care delivery in the United States in the future? Dr. Mei Zhao, associate professor of Health Administration Programs at UNF gave an excellent presentation on April 11, 2010.

More than thirty JCA members showed up today for the presentation, which indicated the huge interests people have in health care reform. In her presentation, Dr. Zhao explained why we need to reform our health care system and what the health care reform bill includes. She also discussed how healthcare reform will affect the access and financing of health, as well as how the reform will affect the healthcare professions and our life in the next ten years.

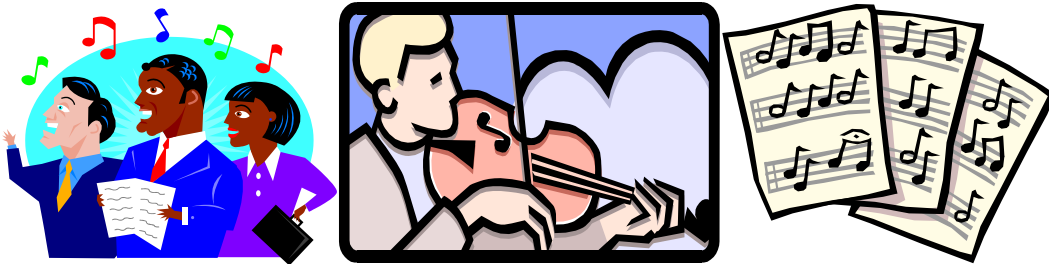

Members were listening to Dr. Zhao's explanations on health care reform.

James Yin was taking notes☺

Audiences asked a lot of great questions related to why the US health care cost has been so high and what the health care reform can do to fix it. Mei answered their questions with humor and confidence. After the presentation, Principle An told Dr. Zhao: “Now you are really famous ☺!!!!”.
